How did Show-Me Arts begin?

Show-Me Arts is a student-led arts education leadership and advocacy organization that began with one group of juniors and seniors from Logan-Rogersville High School in Southwest Missouri in 2008. This small, dedicated team, worked with their state representative, Bob Dixon, and the Missouri Alliance for Arts Education to develop House Bill 870, legislation to promote fine arts professional development for teachers. In 2010 Representative Dixon introduced the bill in the House and Senator David Pearce introduced the bill in the Senate. Show-Me Arts members, met with state department of education (DESE) officials, personally advocated for arts education at the Missouri State Capitol, provided testimony at Committee hearings for the bill, and gained a unique perspective of state government. The students and their supporters were rewarded when the 2011 legislature passed their idea into law.

In the last few years, students from The Paseo Academy, Lathrop, Branson, Rolla, Lindbergh, Sedalia Smith-Cotton, Fulton, Mexico, and Platte City have met to begin the work of expanding that voice to other schools. This year we want to involve even more students from schools across the state. More students, speaking in a coordinated effort, means the case for the arts in education is being stated more forcefully than ever.

What is the purpose of the Show-Me Arts Summit?

The student leaders of Show Me Arts are inviting middle and high school students to develop an effective organization, effective leadership, and a focused advocacy message to promote arts education, not only to state legislators, but also in their schools and communities. Students see arts programs and budgets in danger of being cut or limited in local school districts and they want to do something about it. Educating the public and the policy-makers about the importance of the arts in our schools is one way to make arts education flourish as a vital part of every student's school experience.

At the Summit you will:

- Enjoy meeting and making connections with student advocates from around the state
- Participate in Advocacy 101, a primer on how to effectively represent arts education to decision makers at local, state and national levels
- Participate in role playing exercises with actual legislators, education leaders, and lobbyists
- Inspire each other through a network of arts student leaders to let your voice be heard.
- Put your skills to work the next day at Fine Arts Education Day.

Our message is simple.

Every School. Every Child. Every Day.

Registration Information: To register for the Summit, send the forms on the last two pages of this flyer or from the website (www.moaae.org) with the name of the school and the students/teachers/parents who will be attending to the contact address on the form or register at http://www.moaae.org/main\_page0.aspx. Questions about the program are welcome. Contact Teri Turner, Show-Me Arts, Missouri Alliance for Arts Education (turnert@sedalia200.org) or call (660) 851-5364. Please do not make room reservations ahead of time. MAAE will take care of the reservations after all registrations have been submitted.

Thanks to our friends at the Francis Family Foundation we can offer this Summit on March 27th as an all-inclusive package for only $35 per person, a savings of over $40 off the actual cost.
